ENGLISH ANCESTRY OF THE PEABODY (PABODY, PAYBODY, PABODIE) FAMILY

About fifty years ago Mr. Horatio G. Somerby, the genealogist, a native of Essex County, Mass., and a personal friend of Mr. George Peabody of London, made considerable research to discover the origin of this family. What he found was noted and his manuscripts came to the Mass. Historical Society which loaned them to the N. E. Historic-Genealogical Society. The latter courteously permitted Dr. Selim Hobart Peabody to study these notes and still later the present writer was allowed to review them. He then went to England in the summer of 1909, and carried the search further; examined documents at Somerset House, in the Public Record Office and the British Museum, traced through printed indexes and lists published within the past few years and through the manuscript indexes of several counties and dioceses; and particularly reviewed the documents of the county of Leicester, which Mr. Somerby had concluded and Mr. Pope also believes was the ancient home of this family, going through the transcripts of ancient parish records, etc.

The result of this work is here given for the inspection of all concerned.

St. Albans, whose minister certified to the worthiness of his parishioners the Tuttells, has been supposed to have also been the home of the rest of the passengers named in the list of the Planter. [See the heading in the article on Francis of Ipswich a few pages later.] But it is now known that "Franc's Pebody" and other passengers were not residents of that parish. So it is concluded that the heading was intended only to cover the case of the Tuttells. Hertfordshire had none of this family, nor had Essex, Suffolk, Middlesex or either of the adjacent counties, save a very few persons in one London parish. But passing northward along a frequented highway, we find some in Northamptonshire (none of whom, however, will connect with the American emigrants); and then, going further into the heart of old England, we find the family in a very ancient period domiciled in Leicestershire at Lutterworth, famous as the residence and burial-place of the noble and influential reformer, John Wycliffe. His influence was still strong there when these records begin; and the impulse to join in New England's Puritan-pilgrimage was undoubtedly fostered by that influence. From items in the wills of several persons we gather that the Peabody family of Leicestershire was all connected with the Lutterworth group, and very likely derived from it. Positive links are not found; the absolute evidence of the birth of the American founders of this family is not here; but a chain of most valuable records, which seem to the writer to amount to real settlement of the question.

The name itself was variously spelled even in the same parish and on the same document. The oldest and most prevalent form previous to the settlement of New England was Paybody. Two common words, these syllables are, and perhaps they point back to a man or a succession of men in the fourteenth century (when surnames were crystallizing) who paid the servants, creditors and employees of barons, manufacturers or public officials. Body meant person or individual, pay-body would carry the same idea as pay-master or paying-teller. The name, if such be its origin, would be a memorial of ability and trustworthiness.

On the other hand the spelling Peabody which prevails in America was not found once in a hundred cases in early English records, and was first signed on either side of the Atlantic, the writer believes, by Nathaniel of Topsfield, son of Francis, in the year 1715! All theories of the family cognomen being derived from "pea, a mountain, and Boadie, a kinsman of Queen Boadicea," prove unworthy of belief.

The earliest document discovered concerning any person of this family is Witnesses Robart Vyllers gentellman Thomas Cane Henrye Walose with others.

Proved 9 January 1569. The inventory shows crops in garden and field, household utensils and farming tools, cattle, swine, furniture, etc., £16.

The testator's son John, recorded as "of Hothorpe," was married at North Kilworth, Leic., a few miles north of Hothorpe and Theddingworth, Jan. 15, 1569-1570, to Isabell Allen. Where he dwelt and what children he had is not shown at Kilworth. The registers of Hothorpe and Theddingworth are unfortunately lacking for that period. The next will at Leicester in order of time is that of woolen draper, 1574, who bequeathed his property to the children of his sister, Mrs. Robinson, naming no other relations except his brother Robert Paybody and his own wife, whose christian name he fails to record.

The Probate files next give us an interesting will which is here given entire.

The Lutterworth family as such does not appear in probate records after 1520 until the year 1591, when we find proved June 28, 1591. Mentions his wife Margaret and sons Lawrence and William, who are witnesses as well as legatees of their father's will. It adds nothing which points toward the American immigrants.

The Bitteswell family appears in the person of William Paybodye, whose will was proved Sept. 14, 1605; naming sons John, William, Richard, and daughters Margaret, Barbara and Anne. This son John died and left a will which was proved Sept. 30, 1617, bequeathing to wife Elizabeth, son John and daughter Sicilie and brother William. This third John would have been altogether too young to be the Duxbury pioneer.

The North Kilworth family is represented in wills by Thomas, whose testament was proved Oct. 1, 1620; he bequeathed to sons John and Thomas, to their children and to his wife Jane. Examination of the parish registers shows many records of the clan, yet fails to give a line touching the New England immigrants.

Several other wills at Leicester, examined first by Mr. Somerby and then by Mr. Pope, and a number at Peterborough, seen and reported by Mr. Somerby, show the Peabody family somewhat numerous in Northamptonshire, but, as Mr. Pope believes, wholly of later rise than the Leicester family and probably an offshoot from that.

But there are three wills on file at Leicester which Mr. Somerby failed to find, whose dates are after the embarkation of Francis and John to this country, which appear to be of great value in our investigation.

THE WILL OF RICHARD PEBODY OF ARNESBY

The document is fairly rotten with age, its date and half the substance gone; yet the parts remaining show that it was proved at Leir 2 May, 1636; that it gave the degree of the testator as "yeoman," and mentioned sons William, George, Thomas and Richard; daughter Anne and wife Annis.

This is very interesting for the names William and Thomas, which are so strong in the Duxbury family and in another will presently to be shown. The name "Annis," too, which John of Duxbury gave to his daughter, seems a clue for the searcher.

THE WILL OF JOHN PEBBODDY OF GLEN MAGNA (GREAT GLEN), 1652

This remarkable combination of christian names, one of them having been found in no other document in England of that or earlier date, is most exciting to a searcher. Here is a John, with sons William, Thomas and Francis, just as at Duxbury in New England, the order being slightly different and the additional name Edward being found in the document before us. The "weaver" cannot be the same as the "planter" in New Plymouth colony, whose will had been made three years earlier. The Great Glen "Francis" cannot be the passenger in the Plarter in 1635, for the former continued to live at his father's residence and made a will later which proves this fact.

FFRANCIS PAIBODY OF GREAT GLENN

made his will 17 April, 1685; bequeathed to his sons ffrancis and John; his brother William Paibody owed him money which formed a part of the estate bequeathed.

All this separates the two families absolutely. But why the similarity of names? John, William and Thomas were the three most common christian names in all England at that period; Francis was rare, and only mentioned in these wills out of all the Peabody probate records and files and parish registers examined in the wide search made by two experts fifty years apart. It seems a good inference that there was some close relationship between the Glen and Duxbury households, the cause of the bestowal of so many similar names and of the test name, Francis, in particular. The fathers appear to be of about the same age; it is possible they were brothers, for a number of cases have been found and published where fathers of that period bestowed the same christian name on two of their sons, and where the sons, grown to manhood, had definite business relations which made the fact a matter of public record. But more common was the conferring of favorite names by cousins. The writer has found the impression growing upon him that these Johns were children of brothers named William and Thomas, each giving his father's name to his eldest son; and that the other names conferred were likely to have come from the maternal side of the common ancestry. "Francis" was perhaps the christian name of the father of her whom William and Thomas alike called mother.

The parish of Glen Magna (Great Glen) has lost its registers prior to 1689, when the weaver and his son had both passed away; Knighton, a near by parish, remembered in the will of one of the Leicester testators quoted above, has also lost its records of the period of colonization of New England. Neighboring towns that have ancient records fail to show this family. Leicester parishes have nothing extant to help us. Yet there, as we have seen, were the "mercier" (merchant) and the "woolen draper," both signifying their relationship to the old Lutterworth family.

Then there is the Arnesby family, with sons William and Thomas of the right age to be fathers of the two Johns whom we are studying. And Arnesby was the parish of Richard Paybody in 1534 and the birthplace of Robert Hall, the great Baptist divine, a little later than the Puritan emigration. John the weaver suggests the smith and wheelwright of New England, ingenuity and practical efficiency being traits of both households.

A THEORY

From these facts and reasonings the writer has formed the theory that John Paybody of Duxbury with his sons Francis and William, ancestors of the great American family, were natives of the county of Leicester and of the portion in or immediately south of the city of Leicester, probably the little rural parish of Glen Magna or Great Glen.

The kind of men revealed in the wills quoted and reported above attract our respect. They were pure and upright in character, devoted to family and church; they possessed enough property to be independent and self-respecting, yet not so much as to prevent their rising up at the call of a new country. The seed sown by Wycliffe at Lutterworth, — the oldest seat of the family of which we can learn, — was of the right sort to make Puritans and Pilgrims, true to convictions, far-sighted for their children and staunch for the service of God.

Members of this family who remained in England never rose above the level of their neighbors nor put a single name into the annals of business, scholarship, wealth or public service. It was reserved for the stock which was transplanted to the new world to develop a great host of men and women who have taken high rank in this aspiring nation, and for one of this number to return to the cradle of the clan and show Englishmen how to do business on a magnificent scale with justice, and bestow munificent sums on Britain's own down-trodden with a method all new and admirable!

No coat of arms could possibly equal the heritage which this family has received from its God-fearing, adventurous, yeoman ancestors, who brought the stock from mid-England in 1635 and 1636.

GLEN MAGNA, like many names of localities in England, has, in its official title, the Latin adjective; the popular habit, clinging to the translation of the official title, or possibly to the original name of the pretty valley, gives the plain English term, GREAT GLEN. The landscape has the easy, rolling effect of mid-England, oaks and beeches and ash trees all about; excellent pasturage and crops; comfortable dwellings, good roads. The group of houses about the church has not grown, probably, since the days of Elizabeth; perhaps less actual business is carried on to-day, since the city of Leicester, half a dozen miles away, developed its many manufactories and facilities for all activity. But the old faith and faithfulness are still there; the skylarks and thrushes and nightingales sing their pristine songs, and the home life of the English family goes on in its sweet old fashion in cottage and mansion. The courteous vicar, Rev. A. T. Whyte-Venables, gave the visitor a quaint wood-cut of the (restored) parish church, which conveys some idea of the charms of the locality. C. H. P.

PEABODY GENEALOGY

1. JOHN PAYBODY,¹ born in England; came to Plymouth, N. E., as early as 1636, for his name is in the list of freemen of the colony dated March 7, 1636-7, and he was admitted and sworn with others whose names are in that list Jan. 2, 1637-8. He received a grant of ten acres of land Jan. 1, 1637-8, "on Duxburrow side, lying betwixt the lands of William Tubs on the north side and those of Experience Mitchell on the south side, and from the sea in the west, and from Blew Fish River in the east." Another tract, granted him Nov. 2, 1640, was 30 acres "with meadow to it" at North River. He was a member of the jury which convicted three young Englishmen of the murder of an Indian Sept. 4, 1638, and of "the Grand Inquest" at the court June 4, 1639. He was one of the sureties on a neighbor's bond June 4, 1645. No other references to him appear in the records of the colony, save the following copy of his will and testimony about it.

THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF JOHN PAYBODY

John Paybody

John ffernesyde

Boston in New England
the 27th of April 1667

M^r John ffernesyde came before mee under written and deposed that by order of John Paybody above written and mentioned: hee wrote what is above written and Read it to the said John Paybody on the day of the date thereof and declared the same to be his Last Will and that when hee soe did hee was of a sound disposing mind to his best knowlidg and alsoe subscribed his name thereunto John ffernesyde as a witness:

As Attesteth Edward Rawson Recorder

No document of any sort is appended to this copy of the will and the accompanying deposition of Mr. Fernyside. Doubtless an inventory was taken duly, but has become lost. The copy does not give absolute evidence that the name was spelled exactly in this way in the original, though this would be usual with recorders; but it affords satisfactory evidence that the signature was an autograph and not a "mark."

The children mentioned are not certainly all that survived, though it was usual for a man to mention all; no record has been found about the eldest son, Thomas; perhaps he did not come to this country. The second son bears a name which was not at all common in the pioneer families of New England, nor as frequently given in England as other christian names. As the English records show, the name was found in only a single instance in any other Paybody family there in that period. The fact that a Francis was living right here in Massachusetts, at the time the will was written, whose age and conditions matched this case, has seemed to all who have made close study of the subject strong evidence that Francis of Ipswich was the second son of John of Duxbury; Ipswich was so short a distance from Duxbury that communication would have been easy.

Although there has not yet been discovered any family record of this Duxbury pioneer or other documentary evidence that Francis of Ipswich was his child, yet that theory is acted on in this work. The genealogy of Francis and his descendants is first given, then that of William and his descendants, generations being similarly numbered in the two parts.

John Paybody died at a time and place of which no record has been found.

Children:

- i. Thomas,² named in his father's will.
2. ii. Francis, named in his father's will.
3. iii. William, b. about 1619.
- iv. Annis, m. about 1639 John Rouse (Rowe) of Marshfield. He d. Dec. 16, 1684; she d. about 1688, each leaving a will.

Children:

1. Mary Rouse, b. Aug. 10, 1640; m. — Price.

PART ONE

FRANCIS PEABODY (PABODY) AND HIS DESCENDANTS

LIEUTENANT FRANCIS PEABODY (PABODY)

2. FRANCIS ² (John ¹), born in England about 1612 or 1614, came to New England in the spring of 1635. Of this we have most satisfactory evidence.

In the Record Office of the British government in London there is a book, written certainly in the time of Charles I, containing a copy of passenger lists of ships which sailed from England during the year 1635. We copy from the old volume the heading and entry which touch this case:

2^o Aprilis 1635

Theis under written names are to be transported to New England imbarqued in the Planter Nic^o: Trarice M^r bound thither the pties have brought certificates from the Minister of S^t S^t Albons in Hertfordshier & Attestacon from the Justices of peace according to the Lord's order.

Husb: man Franc's Peboddy 21

The age set down after a name was generally a mere approximation. Thus we find among the papers of Essex county court a deposition made many years after this passage, which gives a slightly different story: "the 24th of the 4th month 1662" (i. e. June 24, 1662) "the testimoni of ffrancis Pabody aged fifti yeares;" and a still later deposition, made Nov. 19, 1690, gives his age as "78 years."

The ship list would carry his birth back to 1613 or 1614; these depositions would carry it to 1612.

There is no account of the arrival of the "Planter" or of the homes found by her passengers. But in the year following Francis was definitely located at Ipswich, in Essex county, Massachusetts, and with tokens of having been there some months. The records of Ipswich are very imperfect, and part of the earliest pages give evidence of being copies of older records, but seem to be trustworthy as to dates. The entry which first shows our man describes the lands of Samuel Hall:

“Eight acres of planting ground, by an act of the Towne as in the old book Anno 1636, lying near the highway going to Labour in vaine meadowe, butting to y^e East upon y^e planting ground of John Seaborn and on y^e North y^e planting ground of Francis Pebody.”

There should be found a record of the grant of this “Planting ground” to Pebody, and a home lot would have been granted him if he had a family; but the records show no such items.

Nor do we find mention of the man in the fragmentary notes of town business till years have passed away and he is residing in an adjoining town. Nor do the annals of neighboring towns help us discover his history until he is found in the year 1640 one of the inhabitants of Hampton, and recorded by the historian of that plantation as a proprietor. He received the honor of freemanship in the colony May 18, 1642, his name associated with Hampton men in the list. In 1645 he had a share in the common lands of Hampton and was also acting as a member of the committee who saw to the finishing of the meetinghouse. His residence was near that of Isaac Perkins, and that of William Cole; and the wife of the last-named made her first entry into court records, so far as we know, by the use of her reckless tongue against her near neighbors.

An entry in the oldest book of records of Ipswich Court says, under date of Nov. 4, 1645, that “Eunice Cole is to sit in the stocks at Hampton and to make acknowledgement of her slanderous speeches concerning Susan Parkings & lidia pebodye and to pay to the witnes Isaac Perkins 7d and the feas of the court.” Eunice Cole’s subsequent history, down to her witchcraft trials and imprisonment and her good husband’s sorrows are elsewhere sufficiently enlarged on. It is enough for the present purpose to note the intimacy of the Pebody and Perkins families; to hint at a possible relationship of the families; and to make careful note of the name of Francis Peabody’s wife at that time, “Lydia,” as the historian of Hampton gives it in his genealogies. He also adds a statement that the child of Francis, Lydia by name, was baptized at Hampton Aug. 30, 1640. But the same historian tells his readers in his introduction that he had access to records of the church only from a much later date; and none are extant to-day for any where near that time; so that it is a mystery where he obtained this entry. The court record, however, attests the name of the wife, and probability supports the historian's statement. Who Lydia was is absolutely unknown, though every shred of contemporaneous record has been searched, it is believed, for information about it. But at some time after 1649 Francis, a widower, found a "Mary," who was the mother of at least half of the fourteen children of our pioneer. She was a legatee in the will of Reginald Foster of Ipswich, dated 30 April, 1680, and specified as "my daughter Mary, wife of Francis Paybody." But we have another element of perplexity touching the marital history of this family. In his will we shall see that Francis Pabody calls Daniel Wood "son in law," and promises to do what he was "obliged to do for him when come to age," saying that he will convey to him certain lands. Then we find the deed on record, wherein, "with good considerations and severall reasons moving me thereunto," he conveys to "my loving son Daniel Wood of Boxford" Jan. 20, 1695-6, 100 acres of land in Boxford, "for and in consideration of a parcell of land as I had & disposed of as y^e abovesaid Wood was hier to & for time spent in my service." [Essex Deeds XI, 78.] This Daniel Wood* made a deposition in a certain law case 23 (5) 75, i. e. July 23, 1675, in which his age was given as "about 25 years," carrying his birth back to about the year 1649 or 1650. It has been observed that a Daniel Wood of Ipswich "lately deceased" left property which was appraised 23 March, 1648, and administration on his estate was granted, "1st mo: 1649," to "Marye Wood late wife to the aforesaid Daniell who is allowed to administer and to bring up the children the whole estate being left in hir hand for that end." No mention of a marriage of Daniel Wood prior to this time, and

*NOTE. In Topsfield town records there is a copy made by a reputable clerk in 1823, in which he calls the wife of Daniel Wood a Peabody when recording her death Sept. 23, 1714; on her gravestone she is said to have been "in her 57th year"; but there does not appear to be any evidence that the clerk was justified in alleging that her maiden name was Peabody. [C. H. P.]

no allusion in Foster's will to any Wood grandchild; yet the name Mary and the relationship of Daniel Wood are evidences of a certain sort which are submitted to the consideration of our readers.

In 1649 the court of Norfolk county, a shire which existed for a brief period and included Hampton with Salisbury, Haverhill, Exeter, Dover and Strawberry Bank (Portsmouth), appointed Francis Peabody one of the commissioners to try cases involving small amounts of money, a position equivalent to that of justice of the peace to-day. March 25th, 1650, however, he sold his Hampton property to Robert Drake and removed to a town which had been set off from his former home. By an act of the General Court of Massachusetts Bay, Oct. 18, 1648, it was enacted that "The village at the newe medowes at Ipswich is named Toppesfeild"; and to that borough he went, and settled not far from the spot which he had first owned. He had several pieces of property. One worthy of special mention was half of the farm which had been owned by William Symonds, son of Mr. Samuel Symonds, one of the leading citizens of Ipswich and of the colony. He gave a bond to Rev. Thomas Harrison and Dorothy, his wife (daughter of Mr. Samuel Symonds) 2(8) 1650, and paid the money to William Symonds for them Feb. 16, 1657, Mr. Harrison having been "late pastor of the church of God lately in Virginia." The fact is noted that Mr. Symonds had removed to "Wells in Yorkshire in New England." All this is told in the receipt on record in the Essex Registry of Deeds. An interesting bit of history about this farm is found in the following deposition which the purchaser gave to settle a dispute between adjoining owners.

The testimony of Francis Peabody aged 78 years is that I having bought on half of m^r Simmonds farm: y^e said feild m^r Simmonds sent up goodman gage & goodman Brag to shew me the bounds of that farme, and they did shew me a stak in a medow which medow is now on the back sid of the dwelling house of Isaac Cumins sen^r & on the north sid of the brook several rods: to be the bounds on the north east corner of the farm: & from thence to a tree on the end of pains hill near to a medow where Ipswich commity settled the bounds; afterward I got ensign howlet to help me run the line on the south est side of the farme between goodman every & me & he with others brought the line to the same place on the south est corner: to which place my fence did then & now doth point.

The town of Ipswich records a grant of land to Isaac Foster adjoining "the line of Mr Symonds his farme, now in the possession of Francis Peabody," 19 Feb. 1655. One more item concerning the man is found in Ipswich records, relating to the fact that he and another man had happened to pass over the town line from their homes in Topsfield and cut some trees off of Ipswich land; a matter easily adjusted.

It is in Topsfield that almost half a century of the good man's life passed. Here he was one of the select men, lieutenant of the local military company and an honored member of the church and community. The tax-list of the province in 1687 enrols him with 3 other men in his family, 2 sons and a servant; 1 house, 62 acres of land, 6 oxen, 8 cows, 26 sheep, 5 hogs and 3 horses; his tax was 18 shillings and 4 pence. [Andros Tax-list in Hist.-Gen. Reg. vol. 35, p. 35.]

Francis Pabody died Feb. 19, 1697-8. We present in facsimile and plain print the remarkably intelligent and fine-spirited will which he left. Though written by his pastor, Rev. Joseph Capen, the first of the witnesses, the thoughts and often the phrases of the testator are manifest. It is a grand proof of the energy and poise of the man that he would sign his will although palsy or age had made his fingers tremble. Here he repeats the autograph which we are fortunate in finding appended to other documents.

In the files of Essex County court there are inventories of Robert Andrews, George Bunker, Andrew Creede, Thomas Dorman and John Perkins, of which he was one of the appraisers; the writing of Bunker's, Dorman's and Perkins' is unquestionably his, and the signatures are very similar in all, much like this of the will, — "Frances Pabody." Many a scrivener of that period spelled the christian name so, sex making no difference in the second syllable (as we make nowadays). The surname is in one of the ancestral forms common in England and used sometimes by William of Duxbury. Pronounced crisply, it no doubt gave the impression of Pebody to Mr. Capen and others, which they expressed by using e and ea in the first syllable, giving it the sound of ea in head.

"Was a minister at Natick, highly esteemed for the purity of his character. The following inscription is, in Latin, upon his monument in the graveyard at South Natick: 'Here are deposited the remains of the Reverend Oliver Peabody, a man venerable for the faculties of his mind and for all needful learning. He delighted much in theological investigations. He discharged the pastoral office with great renown for thirty years; — ministering to the people of Natick, especially to the aborigines, in the cause of sacred learning. He was a model in social life. In benevolence and universal hospitality he was pre-eminent. In the firm expectation of a future retribution, he was called from his ministry on the 2nd of February, A. D., 1752, aged 54 years.'

"His wife was a lady distinguished for piety and good sense. She married, second, Deacon John Eliot of Boston, Nov. 2, 1769.

"The people of Natick have most pleasing traditions with respect to this family. A correspondent writes: 'All the old people here unite in saying that the Peabodys were a wonderful family, possessing more virtues and fewer vices than could seldom be found in one family.' "

184. GEORGE ⁷ (Thomas,⁶ David,⁵ David,⁴ John,³ Francis,² *John*¹), born at Danvers Feb. 18, 1795; attained a degree of success and celebrity which makes him an object of suitable family pride. He had but brief school-days; at eleven he went to work in a village grocery store, and after four years became an assistant to his brother David in a dry goods store at Newburyport. By a conflagration his brother was thrown out of business, while the death of their father put George still more completely upon his own resources. This at the age of sixteen years. In 1812 he sailed with an uncle, Mr. Elisha Riggs, for Georgetown, near Washington, D. C., where he still did an assistant's work till admitted at the age of nineteen to the firm of Riggs & Peabody in the dry goods business. The firm soon removed to Baltimore, Md., and grew prosperous. Branch houses were established in the cities of Philadelphia and New York. Mr. Riggs retired after some years and the junior partner assumed the head of the firm, its name being changed to Peabody & Riggs. In 1847, after great advance in wealth and grasp of financial affairs, Mr. Peabody withdrew from the house and established himself in London. His large comprehension of business matters, his keen insight into conditions, his ability to foresee changes and profit by them, soon gained him a rare amount of respect and esteem, until he was recognized by Londoners as well as Americans as one of the foremost business men of the world. He associated with himself Mr. J. S. Morgan, whose son, J. Pierpont Morgan, is so high in the financial world to-day.

But Mr. Peabody was not content to accumulate wealth; he kept a heart of kindness and cultivated thoughts of broad regard for the good of mankind. He held his wealth in trust for the good it could do. So he remembered the town which gave him birth and elementary education, and presented the corporation with what was an opulent sum to them at that time. In 1852, at a celebration of the centennial of its incorporation, Mr. Peabody, unable to be present, sent a letter, replying to the invitation which had been sent him as to each absent child of the town known to be capable of taking interest in the occasion. He alluded to his boyhood days and spoke of a strong affection he retained for the people and place; said that "he could hardly see bounds to the possible future of his native country if harmony at home and good faith to the rest of the world be preserved, and if we planted the unrivalled institution of New England — its common schools — liberally among the immigrants who are filling up the great valley of the Mississippi," etc. He enclosed "a sentiment." "Education. A debt from present to future generations." And then the company who were listening to the letter were startled and delighted to the point of enthusiasm by the announcement which followed: "In acknowledgment of the payment of that debt by the generation which preceded me in my native town of Danvers, and to aid its future prompt discharge, I give to the inhabitants of that town the sum of twenty thousand dollars for the promotion of knowledge and morality among them. I beg to remark that the subject of making a gift to my native town has for some years occupied my mind, and I avail myself of your present interesting festival to make the communication, in the hope that it will add to the pleasure of the day."

Mr. Peabody afterward raised the gift to the sum of $43,000 and a large and beautiful edifice, known as The Peabody Institute, was built, used as a Library and Lecture hall. It has proved of very great value to the community and neighboring towns. His entire gifts to the Institute are said to be $200,000. The people, in honor of Mr. Peabody's munificence and in appreciation of the great eminence a son of the town had attained, gave the name Peabody to that portion of the town of Danvers which contained the spot which gave him birth.

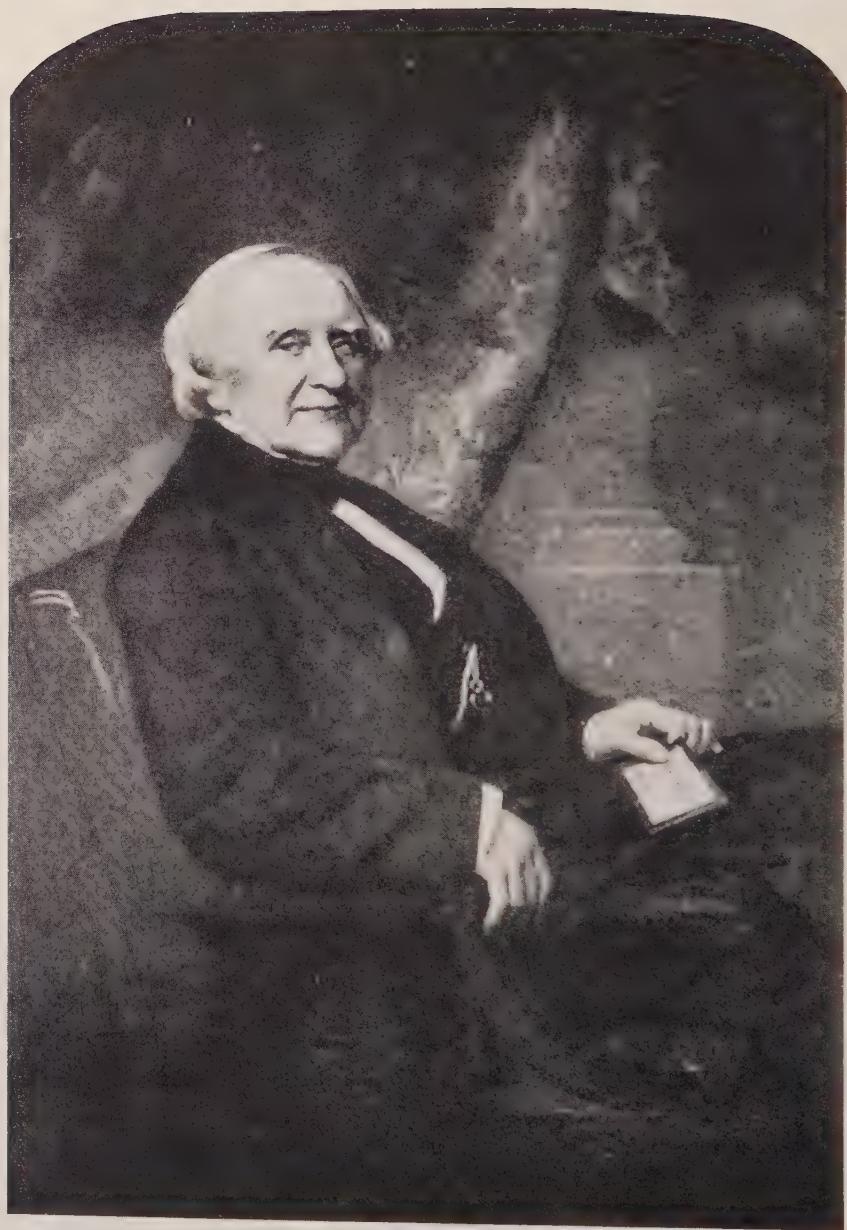

This munificence to his native place was, however, only a very small part of the donations of Mr. Peabody. When, in 1835, as a citizen of Baltimore, he acted in the committee of Maryland to negotiate a loan of $8,000,000, he declined to receive any of the large fee or commission to which he was entitled. He gave liberally toward the support of the American exhibit in the first World's Fair at London in 1851; year after year he maintained patriotic gatherings of Americans and invited guests in London on the Fourth of July, to promote the regard of English people for our country. He bestowed a fund of $25,000 on Phillips Academy, Andover; the like amount to Kenyon College in Ohio; $13,000 to Newburyport Public Library; $20,000 each to the Massachusetts and Maryland Historical Societies; $140,000 to found the Peabody Academy of Sciences at Salem; $150,000 each to Harvard and Yale for Archaeological and Zoölogical museums; $1,250,000 to found and maintain the Peabody Institute of Baltimore; and many other donations of importance. Beyond all these was the gift of $1,000,000 to found a Co-educational Training School for Teachers in the city of Nashville, Tenn.; still larger was the magnificent donation of $3,000,000 to the trustees of the Peabody Educational Fund for promoting education throughout the Southern States. The Congress, March 15, 1867, voted him thanks and ordered a gold medal to be presented him. The medal is at Peabody Library, Peabody, Mass.

But that which has been most widely known and called forth the largest admiration for the philanthropist was his gift to the poor of London. Seeing how many worthy poor were obliged to live in ill-made, ill-kept dwellings, whose landlords cared nought for the health or moral condition of their tenants, he projected a plan for something far in advance. He devised a scheme for erecting dwellings where honest, clean, virtuous people could live happily and yet pay only small rent. He placed in the hands of trustees at first the sum of £150,000 ($750,000) and later increased the gift to £500,000 ($2,500,000) for this noble purpose. This fund, with the accumulations of parts at interest and the receipts of the very small rentals, has gained an average of almost three per cent. income through the years. Thus landlords everywhere have had a demonstration most practical that one can "do good and get paid for it." But Mr. Peabody planned to have this good work grow by its own usefulness, never returning to himself or his heirs at all.

Great men took the affair in charge; Lord Stanley, Mr. C. M. Lampson, Mr. J. S. Morgan, Mr. Horatio G. Somerby, such hearty and brainy collaborators he had at the outset, and worthy successors since. At the end of the year 1906 the fund had provided 12,328 rooms, in 5,469 separate dwellings in twenty localities.

All this benevolence, amounting to something like nine million dollars, moved the people of both countries. Queen Victoria was foremost in expressing her sense of the obligation of all the world to such a giver. She offered to make him a baronet or give him the decoration of the Grand Cross of the Bath. These he declined, ever retiring from publicity, and seeking no reward, but accepting with deep appreciation the letter in the Queen's hand which we present herewith. She also gave him a portrait of herself which he left with other mementoes at Peabody Library.

When he died a service was held in Westminster Abbey, as for a lord of the realm; and a ship of the Royal Navy brought his body back in stately honor to his native town.

We present a picture of Mr. Peabody which has great interest. It is a reproduction of a photograph taken generously for this genealogy by the Assistant Secretary of The Peabody Donation Fund, Mr. A. H. Lloyd-Warren, from the painting which hangs in the London office.

It was painted after the gift had been made; it represents Mr. Peabody sitting in a customary posture of receiving friends; in his hand the letter of the Queen in which she made her royal acknowledgment and offer. From this painting a statue was carved which stands in the area of the Royal Exchange in the heart of financial London; a replica of the statue is in Baltimore.

In the Encyclopedia Americana one may see another excellent picture of Mr. Peabody and admirable portraits in the Peabody Museum at Salem and the Library at Peabody. Many articles have been written, memorializing this great man. His Peabody relations may well hold his memory tenderly and imitate his unselfish life. He never married; but other people's children in many cities and countries rise up and call him blessed.

In comparatively early life he had a romance and a grief, the details of which have not come before the public gaze; but he said once to a friend who congratulated him on his London donation, "After my disappointment long years ago I determined to devote myself to my fellow beings, and am carrying out that decision to the best of my ability." [Curry's Sketch, p. 12.] From the same work we take a remark Mr. Peabody made to Hon. Robert C. Winthrop regarding the gift for education in the United States: "From the earliest years of my manhood I have contemplated some such disposition of my property; and I have prayed my Heavenly Father, day by day, that I might be enabled, before I died, to show my gratitude for the blessings which he has bestowed upon me, by doing some great good to my fellow men."

Mr. Peabody had a fair complexion, good forehead and features, and a bearing which carried respect and confidence. He was simple in his habits to the degree of frugality, yet liberal to others. Industrious and forceful in business, persevering and undiscouraged. He was the product of the Peabody line of most upright, practical, intelligent people, old English yeomanry, transplanted to the developing life of New England, eminent in many of its branches through the centuries. He inherited many good qualities, also, from his mother and grandmothers, who gave the strength of the Dodge, Gaines, Pope and Andrews families to his fabric. But, after all that, he was a voluntary soul who did his best, and that was very good. [C. H. P.]

George Peabody Esq

Thos Spurr

Windsor Castle.

March 28. 1836.

The Queen hears that Mr. Peabody intends shortly to return to America & she would be sorry that he should leave England without being assured by herself how how deeply she appreciates the noble act of more than princely munificence by which he has sought to relieve the wants of the poorer class of her subjects residing in London.

It is an act as the Queen believes tholly without parallel, & wh-will carry its best reward in the consciousness of having contributed so largely to the assistance of those who need little help themselves. -

The Queen would not however have been satisfied without giving Mr. Peabody some public mark of her sense of her munificence, & she would gladly have conferred upon him either a Baronetcy or the Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath, but that the undersigned Mr. Cabot felt himself debarred from accepting such distinctions.

It only remains therefore for the Queen to give

W. Peabody this a ~~proof~~ ^{proof} of her feelings which she would further wish to make by asking him to accept a Minute Portrait of herself which she will desire to have painted for him & which when finished can either be sent D. Harris to America or join

D. Harris on the U.
Union which she rejoices to hear he meditates, & the Country that owes him so much.

980. DOCTOR SELIM HOBART⁹ (Charles Hobart,⁸ John,⁷ Stephen,⁶ William,⁵ Stephen,⁴ William,³ Francis,² John ¹), born at Rockingham, Vt., Aug. 20, 1829; married at Burlington, Vt., Aug. 9, 1852, Mary Elizabeth, daughter of David Knight and Betsey (Farrington) Pangborn, born at Burlington May 31, 1832; she died at Chicago, Ill., Sept. 1, 1904.

As the compiler of this work, Doctor Peabody deserves a high place in the respect and regard of all the family. The editor wishes to give more than a passing notice of so large-hearted a gentleman, so capable and eminent a member of this clan.

When Selim was two years old his father, Rev. Charles Hobart Peabody, removed to Newton Centre, Mass., and after studies in the Theological Seminary, entered on the pastorate of a Baptist church at Sutton and later at Randolph, where he died in 1842. The boy had already shown his aptitude for study in the common branches and in beginnings of Greek and Hebrew. He had one year at the Boston Latin School, but was obliged to do various forms of manual labor for the next six years. Then he entered college at Burlington, Vt., supporting himself mainly by teaching school — six full terms during his course; he graduated in 1852, having won his election to the Φ B K Society. Was appointed principal of the City High School. In 1853 he became professor of Mathematics at a collegiate institution in Fairfax, Vt. In 1854 he was chosen professor of Mathematics and Physics in the Polytechnic College at Philadelphia, Pa., where he also taught Engineering and Mechanics and gave lectures on Architecture and Mining. Though the school was small his early pupils gained positions of distinction. While in Philadelphia he did his first Exposition work, being employed as engineer by the Philadelphia County Society in 1855, and by the U. S. Agricultural Society in 1856. In the Fremont campaign of 1856 he was active, being secretary of a Republican Club. Under appointment as chief clerk in the U. S. Land Office about to be opened at Eau Claire, Wis., he went thither in 1857; and his training rendered him most helpful to the new town, whose streets and buildings, bridges and churches, felt the impress of his planning and operations. He accepted the position of principal of the High School of Fond du Lac, Wis., in 1859, and remained there till 1862. He removed to Racine, Wis., where he was superintendent of schools. His patriotism led him to offer himself for duty in the Union army, but a certain imperfection in his feet which did not hinder his activity caused his rejection twice.

In 1863, in an address as president of the Wisconsin Teachers' Association, he outlined a method of organizing the colleges which were made possible by the Congressional system of land grants. His ideas, then expressed, were substantially followed in several states, notably in Illinois. In 1865 he went to Chicago and took the department of Chemistry, Physics and Astronomy at the High School; he also organized evening schools in the city. In 1868 he published a series of juvenile books on Natural Science; a text book on Astronomy in 1869, and an Arithmetic in 1872.

In 1871 he went to the chair of Physics and Civil Engineering at Amherst Agricultural College; while there he performed some novel and exhaustive experiments upon the flow of sap in trees. In 1874 he returned to his old position at Chicago. Was elected secretary of the Chicago Academy of Sciences in 1875.

He began his great work at the University of Illinois in 1878, taking the chair of Mechanical Engineering and Physics in the institution, then known as The Illinois Industrial University, at Champaign. In 1880 he was appointed to fill out the unexpired term of the Regent of the institution who had resigned; March, 1881, he was elected President, and continued to discharge the duties of the office until September, 1891. During his service he procured the change of name to The University of Illinois; saw the attendance, the faculty, the endowment all greatly enlarged and the Legislative appropriation increased five-fold, while two new buildings were added. His work is appreciated more and more as years pass.

In 1885 he installed the exhibit of Illinois at the New Orleans Exposition; in 1887 was manager of the Educational Exhibit at Chicago. In 1891 he was made chief of the Department of Liberal Arts in the World's Columbian Exposition. His success in this position was so marked that he was called to similar positions (with modifications) in the expositions at Buffalo, Charleston and St. Louis. In the discharge of certain duties connected with Exposition work he went to Paris in 1899. He was elected to membership in many honorable societies: was president of the National Council of Education in 1889; Fellow of the Am. Assoc. for the Advancement of Science; the London Society of Science, Letters and Art; member of the Société Entomologique de France, etc.

In person Doctor Peabody was of medium height, active and skilful, social and winning in manner, thorough and acute in mental habits. He was the original editor in chief of the International Cyclopedia.

During many years, amid pressing cares and at great expense of time and money, Doctor Peabody pursued the labor of love which he felt worthy of his hearty service, the gathering of information and the compilation of materials for a family history. His letters reveal a man of strong, disinterested love, of great kindness and broad sympathies. He believed that the Peabody Family was a remarkably good one in all points that go to make character and efficiency, and he did untiring, patient, persistent work to attain the end. He had got to the vicinity of the consummation; many pages were type-written, all tabulated and arranged most systematically; so that the editor's work has been as easy as could be when so many records were included and so many particulars involved.

All honor to the Family Friend, the Member of every local circle, who has brought all together in a permanent way through the pages of his book !

While attending to the duties of his exposition work at St. Louis, Doctor Peabody passed away suddenly, from apoplexy, May 26, 1903.

WILLIAM PEABODY (PAYBODY) AND HIS

WILLIAM AND DESCENDANTS

3. WILLIAM² (*John*¹), born in England about 1620 [see English Ancestry, ante]; married at Plymouth, N. E., Dec. 26, 1644, Elizabeth, daughter of John and Priscilla (Mullens) Alden,* born at Plymouth about 1623, died in Little Compton, (then in Massachusetts, now in the state of Rhode Island) May 31, 1717.

William Paybody (or Pabodie as sometimes written by him and some of his descendants) grew up in Duxbury with his father and then made a position and acquired a competency for himself. He is called in deeds of land at various times "yeoman" (in 1648), "boatman" and "planter" (in 1672), and "wheelwright" (in 1681). He was also a land-surveyor, as his deposition below shows. He bought of John Holland and Hopestill Foster of Dorchester, Nov. 1, 1648, a dwelling-house, garden, stables, land and meadow which they had bought of Jonathan Brewster, and possessed other tracts of land in the town. He also bought lands at Mattapoissett and Sepecan which he afterward sold. He adjusted a boundary line between his lands and those of Mrs. Sarah Parke, and William Brewster, Oct. 27, 1680. He acquired by purchase with others a share in the lands at Little Compton, R. I., and removed thither about the year 1684.

Meantime he had been a town officer at Duxbury and a representative or deputy to the General Court of Plymouth colony. June 5, 1651, he was admitted a freeman of the colony. He was elected to the General Court which met at Plymouth, Aug. 1, 1654, and re-elected each year till 1663; then again in 1668, and continuously from 1671 until 1682.

* Longfellow's romance of the courtship of Miles Standish has given great prominence to John and Priscilla Alden. He was a cooper who came over in the Mayflower in 1620 and became a man of much enterprise and influence in the colony. Priscilla's father, William Mullens, was one of the most efficient of the organizers and managers of the colony.

In a deposition which we present below he gave his age as about 64; this would place the date of his birth about the year 1620. He died at Little Compton (then in Massachusetts, now in Rhode Island) Dec. 13, 1707.

COPY OF THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF WILLIAM PEABODIE OF LITTLE COMPTON, RHODE ISLAND

The last will and testament of William Peabodie of Little Compton in the County of Bristol in the Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England, being aged and weak in body but of perfect understanding as all other times blessed be God for it, for the settling and continuing of peace in my family and after my decease do order and dispose of my estate in this world as followeth.

IMPRIMIS, I give and recommend my soul into the hands of God who gave it and my body after death to be buried in decent and Christian manner at the discretion of my Executor hereafter named. And after my just debts and funeral charges are paid I order and dispose of my estate in this world as followeth:

ITEM, I give to my beloved wife Mary a feather bed and furniture thereunto belonging and all the household stuff that was hers before I married her. I give her also during her widowhood and for her further support suitable clothing, house-room, meat, drink, washing, and lodging and five pound a year cash to be provided and paid to her by my son William Peabodie out what I shall hereafter give into his hands and likewise my other sons John and Joseph shall pay her each of them five pound a year Provided she quit her thirds and all other claims to my estate only what was hers when I married she shall enjoy though she does claim her thirds.

ITEM, I give unto my son John Peabodie, fourteen acres of land on the south side of my farm adjoining to the farm of Thomas Church, Esq., that is to say from the northwest corner of said Churches farm to extend so far northerly by the highway until a west line from the highway to the river shall make fourteen acres with all the buildings, fences, priveleges and appurtenances whatsoever thereunto belonging to him his heirs and assigns forever, he paying as I shall now order.

ITEM, I give unto my two sons, William Peabodie and Joseph Peabodie all the rest of or remaining part of my farm, that I have not given to my son John, only provided in the division of it that Williams part shall be in value two hundred pounds better in the judgment of judicial men or otherwise as they shall agree between themselves to them their heirs and assigns.

ITEM, I give to my son Benjamin Peabodie one quarter part of a four and twenty acre lott of land in Little Compton the eighth in number together with the addition thereunto belonging which addition is now in the possession of Samuel Tompkins to him his heirs and assigns forever. Also I give unto my son Benjamin all the movables in my house that were his mothers.

ITEM, I give unto my beloved daughter Elizabeth the wife of Edward Gray Twenty five pounds cash to be paid unto her by my son John Peabodie.

ITEM, I give unto my beloved daughter Rebecah the wife of Mr. Joseph Fish eight pounds cash to be paid unto her by my son John Peabodie.

ITEM, I give to my beloved daughter Priscilla the wife of William Wilcox ten pounds in cash to be paid by my son John Peabodie.

ITEM, I give to my beloved daughter Judith the wife of Benjamin Church twenty pounds cash to be paid her by my son William Peabodie.

ITEM, I give unto my beloved daughter Mary the wife of Nathaniel Fish twenty-five pounds cash to be paid by my son William Peabodie.

ITEM, I give all the rest of my estate whatsoever not disposed of in this my last will and testament to be equally divided between my two eldest sons viz. John Peabodie and William Peabodie which my said sons John and William Peabodie I constitute and ordain the joynt executors of this my last will and testament. N. B., I would have it to be understood that by the word cash often used in my will or my other legacies or payment, no other specie no more or less than common currency of paper bills of the old tenor equivalent to it, and I do hereby utterly disallow, revoke, and disown all former wills, testaments, legacies, bequests, or executors in any way or manner willed or bequeathed, ratifying and confirming this and other to be my last will and testament. In witness whereof I have set my hand and seal this seventh day of August in the year 1743.

APPENDIX

THE NEWPORT PEABODY FAMILY

1. JOHN PABODY (PEABODY), born about 1612, presumably in England; came early to Newport, Rhode Island. "Bought land there in the year 1649." "He married first Dorothy Tooley; he married second about 1677, Mary, widow of James Rogers; she died in 1678; he died in 1687."

The fact that he had cattle at Little Compton after William Pabody had removed thither may indicate that they were kinsmen. The fact of his having cows at Dartmouth may show that he had business at various points.

NOTE. — The history of the Peabody Family in Newport, R. I., passes through a somewhat hazy period after the death of John, the immigrant. The following traditional records, mingled with a few points of public record, may be printed for what they are worth.

“ John Peabody married a Miss Benton.”

2. John Peabody married Rachel, daughter of Joseph Nicholson, who was born April 12, 1658, and died Nov. 13, 1711. Tradition assigns them the following children: Joseph, John, Hannah, who married in Newport May 23, 1717, Joseph Cook; Dorothy, William, Thomas.

3. Joseph Peabody married at Newport Dec. 27, 1711, Sarah, daughter of Samuel Allen, who mentions her in his will in 1717. They are said to have had children: (4) John, Rachel, who married April 26, 1740, Henry Smith; Eliza, Sarah, and perhaps Benjamin, who married Aug. 7, 1745, Abigail Lyon.
